Paperback. Condition: New. 466 pages. This is an exceptional book that takes the reader on a journey showing the emotional ups and downs of layoffs. The writer pours his heart and soul into pages of this fascinating book. Also the author, as expected from a professional manager with 32 years of experience, superbly puts things in perspective from the business and economic points of view giving a comprehensive understanding of what is happening in this awful economic down turn and why. While the first focus of the book is on those directly affected, it expands by formulating the best industry practices as far as alternatives to layoffs are. This book is primarily an uplifting and inspiring book for the Work a day global stiff caught in Global Financial Crisis despair, and a severe global management crisis. But it does a lot more than that by defining how the work life of the future will look like. It also, provides advice and self help and encouragement to those estimated 40 of American and European work force who are unhappy with their work life. Many readers have found this book extremely helpful in guiding them to re-think their toxic work life issues that had enslaved them, and to become CEOs of their own lives and careers. As a Senior Program and Technology Consultant in Silicon Valley, California, the author spent eight years from the moment that he was angry enough to put his feelings and his management experience in writing for the benefit of others until today that the book is published. Those who read manuscripts indicated that even at that stage, the book resonated with them strongly! It is his sincere hope that his 32 years of management experience in the often-volatile high-tech industry can be used to help everyone better...
