To Reason Publishing, United States, 2007. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This is the first collection of hilarious articles from , the sanely funny humor magazine. The site attracts thousands of visitors a week who are seeking a respite from the craziness of the contemporary world and find it in the consistently intelligent humor that is the specialty of the online magazine. The Collected Humorous Articles consists of satires on contemporary topics, either in the news or more broadly relevant. They run the gamut from outright spoofs to witty philosophical reflections. They re a steadily entertaining mix of non-fiction, part fiction, or complete fiction, grouped under headings from the magazine, such as Sanely Funny Cover Story, Deadline, Shreditorial, Foreign Fun, Washington Spin Din, Culture Comedy, Tech Humor, Clever Monkey, and more. This volume of articles forms a companion volume to the Collected Humorous Fiction, which is made up of pointed spoofs that are entirely fictional. All were featured in the Spoof section of the magazine. was created by and is entirely written by Tom Attea, a humorist and playwright who has had six shows produced Off-Broadway. Critics have called his comedy writing for the theater delightfully funny, witty, with great humor and ebullience and good, genuine laughs. He also co-wrote the first comedy feature that Showtime produced and has written other comedy for television. He was in The Playwrights Unit of The Actors Studio for ten years and was awarded a grant as a playwright by Theater For The New City in New York. While his principal medium is words, he plays the piano and studied composition and orchestration at The Julliard School. He has extensive experience working with news and entertainment media. He wrote the recent advertising campaign for The New...
