Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . This book usually ship within 10-15 business days and we will endeavor to dispatch orders quicker than this where possible. Brand New Book. Excerpt from Year-Book of the Departments and Courses of Instruction, 1903-04 The Drexel Institute was founded in 1891, by Anthony J. Drexel, for the promotion Of education in art, science, and industry. The chief Object Of the Institute is the extension and improvement Of industrial education as a means Of Opening better and wider avenues of employ ment to young men and women. At the same time the academic departments provide for the general development and liberal training of the mind and character of the stu dents, and in the more special and technical courses the same end is kept in view, SO far as the necessary limitations Of the instruction permit. In accordance with the founder s intention, the plan Of organization has been made 80 com prehensive as to provide liberal means of culture for the masses, by means Of evening classes in all the departments of the Institute; by free public lectures and concerts dur ing the winter months and through the Library, Museum, and Picture Gallery, which are open free to the public throughout the year.
